Head Teacher's News

Today was Red Nose Day and we have all been raising money for Comic Relief. Olivia H and Jessica F have been busy selling red noses to Year 4, Olivia has also been selling biscuits and Lewis B has been selling home-made cakes to 4AW.

2K have had an extremely busy week. They have been selling Red Nose pens and sold 200 at £1 each, they have held a very lucrative cake sale, held a 20 minutes sponsored silence and rounded off the week with a Comic Relief themed class assembly.

So far Olivia and Jessica have raised £42.91 and Lewis sold his cakes for £16.80. 2K raised £200 from pen sales, £291 in sponsor money and £90.40 at the cake sale, a total of a whopping £581.40 so far.

Your £1 donations have so far made £ 477. It's not too late to send in your £1 if you forgot - just drop it in to the school office. We will update the total raised on next week's newsletter.

Thank you for your continuing support for our chosen charities.

A retraction and an apology

During 2K assembly, I told the assembled that I agreed to wear a Liverpool F.C. top because, if I did, Mr Hutt would donate the value of his mortgage to Comic Relief and wear a BCFC top next Red Nose Day. This is blatantly untrue, I told a fib.

Dad's Charity Football Match

Are there any Dads, Uncles or Granddads who would like to become part of a team to play a charity football match against another school for charity? One of the parents is looking to put a side together to play a match in aid of The Lily-Mae Foundation – a charity raising money for still born and neo- natal deaths. <https://www.lilymaefoundation.org/>. There would be a cost of £10 per player plus sponsorship. If you are interested please contact Becky on 07881 487520

Science Ambassadors

On Thursday the Science Ambassadors visited the "Big Bang Science Show" at the NEC in Birmingham. They watched a science show all about the more revolting aspects of biology, chemistry, physics and engineering. The show was presented by Stefan Gates (author, TV presenter and You Tuber). There were lots of interactive stands where the children learned about levitation by sound wave, the aerodynamics of paper planes, how to put in rivets on an Air Force aeroplane, how to make an electrical circuit and much more.

Mrs Tomkinson was very proud of how well behaved and polite the children were.

We have posted some photos of our day on our Facebook page.
