

Should Britain “Brexit?”

Recently, millions of people everywhere have been debating over whether or not Britain should leave the EU. The EU is made from a group of countries that have joined together in laws and other agreements. This major controversy has sparked discussion around the globe and is still causing debates and disagreements.

The primary reason that Britain should stay in the EU, is that a variety of people claim that we are much stronger and far less likely to commence war between any countries involved in this group. They believe that ,together, we stand united and also more influential. Thus meaning that ,should war begin between us and another country not in the EU, we are much more likely to affect their decision. We can also vote on international laws whilst in the European Union.

On the other hand, a variety of people disagree ; they claim that, if we were alone, we could control our borders more. This means that we could allow a number of immigrants of our choosing through our borders and emerging into our country. Additionally, they fear that these people that we are allowing to flow in are unskilled and that they may reduce our amounts of resources such as housing and transport.

Alternatively, some people agree that trade and transport would be much easier if we decided to stay in the European Union. Whilst in the EU, they believe that trading with other countries is much easier. Another reason that some people believe we should stay in the EU, is that we have the opportunity to travel to other countries without using a passport to enter. We, however, have the privilege that anyone from the EU wanting to enter our borders, MUST show their passport in order to do so. Showing a passport when entering an airplane, however, is always essential.

A variety of people argue that we aren't getting anything back from when citizens pay tax. Thus meaning that the majority of the substantial amount is being used to keep us in the EU. While some people believe that this is has a better outcome for the EU, others claim that it means we are losing too much money and not getting anything back.

In conclusion, after weighing up both sides of the argument, I believe that we should stay in the EU as there are many reasons why this would be beneficial. The main reason that I agree to this side of the argument is that as a united group we are much more likely to affect other's choices in circumstances such as war – should it happen to come to that once more.
